About Speak Out

Mike and Lesley Storkey from Storkeys' Team have been successfully presenting communications training for over 15 years.

For them the key is providing training in an environment of enjoyment.

As members of Toastmasters International, the world's foremost communication organization, they have honed their skills in order to provide you with the opportunity to develop your skills.

Do Your Communication Skills Measure Up?

Can you confidently present yourself in the best light in a face to face job interview? When called upon to make an oral presentation to colleagues, club group or social function, do you feel intimidated or inadequate? At community meetings do you have your say or remain silent due to nervousness? Are you often misunderstood because you cannot find the words to express your feelings? In these challenging times it has never been more important for you to present yourself as a confident, articulate and capable communicator. Let SPEAK OUT transform your skills and provide you with the opportunity to be heard.
